STATE BAR COURT

HEARING DEPARTMENT – SAN FRANCISCO

In the Matter of
PADAM KUMAR KHANNA,
Member No. 85229,
A Member of the State Bar.

Case No. 02-O-11383-PEM
DECISION AND ORDER OF INVOLUNTARY INACTIVE
ENROLLMENT

I. INTRODUCTION

This disciplinary case involves a seasoned attorney who had created a web of deceptions to seduce his unsophisticated clients to invest $31,000 in a sham corporation and who insists on these same fraudulent and contrived misrepresentations before this Court. His acts of moral turpitude and dishonesty shock the conscience of the legal profession, pose a danger to the public, and degrade the highest possible professional standards for attorneys.

Respondent PADAM KUMAR KHANNA is charged with multiple acts of misconduct in one client matter. The charged misconduct includes (1) failing to comply with certain prophylactic requirements regarding an adverse interest; (2) misappropriating client's investment funds; (3) failing to return client files; (4) failing to render an accounting; (5) misrepresenting to the State Bar regarding the disposition of client funds; (6) misrepresenting to the State Bar about the client files; and (7) failing to cooperate in the State Bar investigation.

This Court finds, by clear and convincing evidence, that Respondent is culpable of all but one of the charged acts of misconduct. Based upon the egregious nature and extent of culpability, as well as the applicable aggravating circumstances, the Court recommends that Respondent be disbarred from the practice of law in California.

1 customer there and speaks Jagjit's native language, Punjabi. Jagjit considered Respondent to be a 2 friend because of their common culture and language.

3 Between 1996 and 1999, the Randhawas hired Respondent to represent them in several legal 4 matters.

5 In 1996, Respondent provided legal services on behalf of and advice to Baljit in three 6 matters: (1) Vehicle Code violations; (2) Temporary Restraining Order (TRO); and (3) shoplifting.
7 There was no fee agreement.

8 The Randhawas testified that they paid Respondent the fees he had charged. Jagjit paid 9 Respondent $1,000 for the Vehicle Code violations case and $500 for the shoplifting matter. He did 10 not ask for a receipt. Respondent discussed the TRO matter with Baljit but did not charge any legal 11 fees.

12 Therefore, the Randhawas did not owe Respondent any legal fees in those three matters.

13 a. Respondent's Contentions

14 Respondent denies that he had ever received any compensation for his services in the 15 Vehicle Code violations case or the TRO matter. Respondent testified that although he did not 16 represent Baljit on the TRO matter, he did discuss the matter with her and had expected to be paid.
17 But Respondent did not have a written fee agreement with the Randhawas and never asked for any 18 fees.

19 Respondent further claims in a July 13, 2001, letter to the Randhawas' subsequent 20 counsel, attorney Bryant H. Byrnes,¹ that the Randhawas owed him an additional $4,500 for his 21 representation in the shoplifting matter. But Baljit did not plead guilty to shoplifting and was let off 22 on a fine of $100. Moreover, Respondent testified he did not have a copy of any written fee 23 agreement and that he does not remember whether he charged a flat fee.

24 Thus, Respondent's contention that the Randhawas still owe him legal fees in Baljit's 25 three matters is without merit.

1 2. Representation of Jagjit Randhawa

2 Respondent represented Jagjit in two legal matters.

3 In or about 1996, Respondent represented Jagjit in one DUI case. Respondent charged him 4 $2,500 which Jagjit paid. Again, there was no written fee agreement.

5 In 1997, Jagjit hired Respondent to retrieve some of his personal property from a friend's 6 house. Jagjit paid Respondent $700 to handle the case, as charged by Respondent. The Randhawas 7 paid Respondent in full.

8 a. Respondent's Contentions

9 Respondent claims that he charged Jagjit $3,000 for the DUI matter and that he 10 received only $500. As a result, Respondent argues that Jagjit still owes him the balance of $2,500.

11 Respondent also contends that he charged the Randhawas $3,500 for the personal 12 property case but received only $500. Respondent admits that while he thinks he gave Baljita a fee 13 agreement in this matter, he does not have a copy even though it is his policy to keep a copy of his 14 fee agreements.

15 Respondent's contention that the Randhawas still owe him legal fees in Jagjit's two 16 matters is rejected.

17 3. The Randhawas' Investment in Amerindia Foods Limited

18 Amerindia Foods Limited (AFL) is a food company incorporated in 1992 that is supposedly 19 located in India. AFL's primary business purpose was to manufacture mango juice and manage a 20 large tomato farm in India. According to Respondent, he was one of AFL's principal founders.
21 Other founders included his family and relatives. Respondent was AFL's President of the North 22 American branch and legal counsel in the United States. Respondent's brother, Chiter S. Khanna, 23 was AFL's chairman. In 1996, when his brother had a heart attack, Respondent was sometimes 24 referred to as the chairman of AFL. Respondent testified that between 1995 and 2003, the company 25 tried to acquire machinery but was unsuccessful.

26 In June 1995, Respondent opened a checking account at Bank of America in the name of 27 Khanna Foods, USA, account number 05559-07175 (Khanna Foods account). According to 28 Respondent, Khanna Foods, USA was not a company – it was his own business name. Respondent

1 admitted that he was the sole proprietor of Khanna Foods, USA. He set up the account to receive 2 royalty payments from AFL for technology that he and his mother had developed with respect to 3 hybrid tomato seeds and to pay any incidental expenses that Respondent as legal counsel for AFL 4 incurred in the United States.

5 In 1996, while representing the Randhawas, Respondent frequently discussed with Jagjit 6 about AFL, its lucrative potentials, and the window period that the Randhawas could also partake 7 in this business venture. Respondent enticed the Randhawas to invest in AFL. After viewing the 8 company brochure and placing their trust on Respondent as a friend and attorney, the Randhawas 9 became convinced of AFL's profitability and hurriedly gave Respondent $25,000 for investment in 10 AFL within the deadline before Respondent left for India in November 1996. In return, the 11 Randhawas were to receive certain shares of stock in AFL.

12 Respondent provided the Randhawas with deposit slips to his personal bank account and 13 Khanna Foods account. Respondent instructed them that each deposit should be less than $10,000 14 to avoid the scrutiny of tax officials. The deposit made in Respondent's personal bank account was 15 for investment and not for payment of legal fees.

16 In accordance with Respondent's instructions, the Randhawas invested $25,000 in AFL by 17 making three deposits in Respondent's bank accounts at Bank of America as follows:

Date of Deposit	Amount	Account No.
11/18/96	$ 9,000	05557-07176 (Respondent's personal account)
11/18/96	$ 9,000	05559-07175 (Khanna Foods account)
11/19/96	$ 7,000	05559-07175 (Khanna Foods account)
Total	$25,000

23 Respondent then left for India. On November 25, 1996, Respondent issued a check made payable 24 to himself from the Khanna Foods account in the amount of $4,000 for his Indian trip. (State Bar 25 exhibit 6, p. 47.)

26 While Respondent was in India, he called the Randhawas to tell them that they would have 27 //

1 to pay an additional $5,000 to $6,000 in cash in order to have an investment of ten lakhs² of Indian 2 Rupees. When Respondent returned from India, the Randhawas paid Respondent the additional 3 $6,000 in cash as requested. They had borrowed the money from Jagjit's father.

4 Between December 1996 and September 1997, AFL sent three letters to Jagjit, confirming 5 the receipt of his investment funds and promising the imminent issuance of stock certificates worth 6 20 lakhs shares.³

7 Despite Respondent's and AFL's repeated promises and Jagjit's constant inquiries regarding 8 AFL stock, to date, the Randhawas have not received a single stock certificate or any evidence of 9 their investment.

10 Contrary to Respondent's assertion that he set up the Khanna Foods account to receive 11 royalty payments from AFL and to pay any incidental expenses that Respondent as legal counsel for 12 AFL incurred, Respondent used the account to pay Respondent's personal bills and purchases. In 13 December 1996, he paid $1,827 for a computer, $1,028.38 for another computer and $200 with a 14 notation "Happy Holiday," and $100 to Household Credit Services, Inc. In January 1997, he paid 15 $330.97 to PacBell and $20 for a parking citation.

16 In 2001, after it became clear to the Randhawas that they were never going to receive a single 17 stock certificate or any evidence of their investment, the Randhawas hired attorney Bryant H. Byrnes 18 to assist them in recovering and/or obtaining an accounting of their investment funds. On June 29, 19 2001, Attorney Byrnes wrote to Respondent, asking for an accounting of the investment funds and 20 legal fees that the Randhawas had paid.⁴

21 On July 13, 2001, Respondent listed the Randhawas matters and stated that he had received 22 $2,100 in legal fees from the clients but that they still owed him about $19,000.⁵ However, he did 23 not provide an accounting of the fees or the investment funds. Respondent further wrote:

24 _____
25 ²A lakh is a unit in Indian currency.

26 ³State Bar exhibit 28, pp. 3, 4 and 6.

27 ⁴State Bar exhibit 9, pp. 8-12.

28 ⁵State Bar exhibit 9, p. 8.

1 "Since June 1999, when I disassociated from Mr. Randhawa, he has 2 repeatedly threatened and harassed me about his claimed investment 3 in the Indian project. I have repeatedly told him to please show the receipts of the money which he claims he sent to India or deposited in my account for payment of fees."

4 In other word, Respondent was denying he had ever received the investment funds from the 5 Randhawas unless they had proof. Meanwhile, the $16,000 in the Khanna Foods account was 6 depleted by 2001.

7 On July 18, 2001, attorney Byrnes again wrote to Respondent requesting that Respondent 8 allow him an opportunity to see six Randhawas client files.⁶ On August 7, 2001, Respondent replied 9 that these were closed files, he would have to locate them, and due to the press of business he would 10 not be able to do anything about the files until the end of August. On September 18, 2001, attorney 11 Brynes again requested that Respondent make available to him the Randhawas' files.⁷ On September 12 21, 2001, Respondent replied:

13 "I am extremely busy till the 15th of October, 2001. However, I can 14 certainly send the copies of all the files ... which I have been able to 15 locate. Those certainly belong to him and he has an absolute right to those files. I will charge you the going rate for copying and my time."⁸

16 Although Respondent replied, his answers were nonresponsive. Respondent did not return 17 the files or provide an accounting. In December 2001, attorney Byrnes assisted the Randhawas in 18 filing a complaint with the State Bar. When the State Bar wrote to Respondent in January 2002 19 about the return of the client files, he replied:

20 "[T]his is the first time I have been requested to do so. Neither the 21 Randhawas nor their attorney Mr. Byrnes had asked for the files to be sent."⁹

22 In the April 2002 response, Respondent wrote: "I did not know who to send the files to."
23 Respondent finally returned the files to attorney Byrnes in April 2002.

1 a. Respondent's Contentions

2 Respondent denies that he had ever given the bank deposit slips to the Randhawas 3 or instructed them to make such deposits. He argues that those bank deposit slips must have been 4 stolen from his office because he had no idea how the Randhawas obtained access to those deposit 5 slips.

6 In a January 30, 2002 letter¹⁰ to State Bar Complaint Analyst, Rebecca Foley, 7 Respondent wrote:

8 "The Randhawas never paid me $25,000 for a business investment.
9 As Randhawas were my clients, they were strictly prohibited to invest money in any of my personal investments."

10 Respondent stated that on November 18, 1996, Jagjit called him after he deposited $9,000 in 11 Respondent's personal bank account as partial payment for his legal fees and $9,000 in the Khanna 12 Foods account and threatened that he was going to deposit another $16,000 into the Khanna Foods 13 account in the next few days. Respondent recalled being very upset that Jagjit deposited $9,000 for 14 investment in the Khanna Foods account. He also blamed the Randhawas for being "out of control 15 and uncooperative during their status as [his] clients." He "opted to withdraw as their counsel but 16 stayed on when they pleaded total ruin because of language and cultural barriers." He contended that 17 the Randhawas still owed him more than $19,000 in legal fees.

18 He further alleged in his January 2002 letter that once he sent the money to AFL, it 19 was AFL's responsibility to return the $16,000 to the Randhawas and that he had "nothing to do with 20 [Jagjit's] investment."¹¹ He also wrote: "Because of not being able to exercise any control over 21 Randhawas I closed both account sometimes in 1999."¹²

22 Respondent claimed that he told Jagjit that investing in AFL was absolutely forbidden 23

25 ¹⁰State Bar exhibit 11.

26 ¹¹In Respondent's January 30, 2002 letter to the State Bar, Respondent stated, "Since 1999, Mr.
27 Randhawa has been enquiring about his investment in AFL. I have repeatedly told him that I have nothing to do with his investment and that he should contact AFL directly." (State Bar exhibit 11.)

28 ¹²State Bar exhibit 11.

1 and that on November 18, 1996, he sent Jagjit a letter to that effect.¹³ In the November letter, 2 Respondent warned Jagjit that he could not invest in any of Respondent's personal projects such as 3 the AFL. He admonished Jagjit not to invest any money in AFL. He also told Jagjit that he was 4 sending Jagjit's investment funds to India and would advise AFL not to allow Jagjit to invest and 5 to return the money. But the Randhawas testified that they never saw that letter.

6 In an April 11, 2002 follow-up letter to the State Bar,¹⁴ Respondent purported to be 7 intrigued by Jagjit's knowledge of his personal and AFL accounts at Bank of America. He also 8 claimed that since Jagjit, on his own initiative, deposited the funds for investment, his fiduciary duty 9 as the attorney for AFL was to forward the money to AFL (which was their notice of the investment) 10 and request that AFL then return the money to the Randhawas.

11 At trial, Respondent testified that when he learned that the Randhawas had deposited 12 $16,000 into his Khanna Foods account, he asked his mother in India, who was a shareholder in 13 royalties to AFL, to give $16,000 to AFL. Respondent reckoned that once his mother transferred 14 $16,000 to AFL, the $16,000 in his Khanna Foods accounts was then his personal money. He further 15 testified that the $9,000 deposited in his personal account was for outstanding legal fees that the 16 Randhawas still owed.

17 The Court finds Respondent's contentions absolutely unbelievable and unreasonable 18 and rejects his fabricated stories. In particular, Respondent was at a loss to explain where his mother 19 obtained the $16,000 to give to AFL in India. Respondent told the Randhawas to pursue the refund 20 of their investment funds from AFL directly and not from him because he could not touch the funds 21 in the Khanna Foods account. Yet, he considered the $16,000 in the account as his personal money.

22 More important, the Court does not believe that the entity of AFL even existed.
23 Respondent has produced no independent reliable evidence, other than photocopies of uncertified 24 documents and letters from alleged officers of the company.

25 Assuming that AFL was incorporated in 1992 and the Khanna Foods account was 26

27 ¹³State Bar exhibit 28, p. 2.

28 ¹⁴State Bar exhibit 13.

1 opened in 1995 for the purpose of AFL doing business in United States, between the years 1996 and 2 1999, other than the Randhawas' $16,000 deposit in November 1996 and a $100 deposit in February 3 1997, the account had no other deposits during those three years. The balance ranged between 4 $22.41 in September 1996 and ($59.44) in January 1997, excluding the Randhawas' deposit.¹⁵ By 5 May 1999, the balance was zero. Such a business account is clearly suspect. Respondent self-6 righteously claimed that he had to close the bank accounts because the clients were out of control 7 when in fact, there were no other substantial transactions except for the $25,000 in November 1996.

8 Moreover, there is no evidence that the alleged letters from AFL were mailed from 9 India. The December 21, 1996, letter¹⁶ from the Director of Finance of AFL, informing the 10 Randhawas that AFL received their investment of five Lakhs and 52,000 Rupees and that stocks and 11 shares would be issued in January 1997, was personally delivered to the Randhawas by Respondent.
12 Similarly, the September 19, 1997, letter,¹⁷ informing the Randhawas that AFL was in the process 13 of issuing the class A preferred stock certificate worth 20 lakhs shares to the Randhawas, was also 14 personally delivered to the Randhawas by Respondent.

15 In February 2003, the State Bar investigator Alice Verstegen wrote letters to the 16 alleged officers of AFL in India – Financial Controller, the Secretary-Corporate Affairs and the Vice-17 President of Human Resources – regarding the Randhawas' investment in AFL. She never received 18 replies from these individuals.¹⁸ Instead, the State Bar received a letter from Chiter S. Khanna, 19 Respondent's brother and purportedly the chairman of AFL, dated September 12, 2003.¹⁹ The letter 20 coincidentally corroborates Respondent's side of the story. But the suspicious letter was delivered 21 to the State Bar in an envelope without any postage markings and Verstegen was never able to track 22 down its origin of mailing. Respondent blamed the missing original envelope from India on the 27 ¹⁸State Bar exhibit 21.

28 ¹⁹State Bar exhibit 27.

1 State Bar's destruction of evidence. Absent any evidence of tampering, the Court believes that 2 Respondent somehow had the letter delivered to the State Bar and not necessarily from India.

3 Chiter Khanna's letter contradicted the other alleged letters from AFL. He wrote that 4 AFL would immediately refund the money to the Randhawas as unsolicited funds for investment.
5 In fact, he stated that "we have made every possible effort from 1997 to 1999 to refund the funds to 6 Mr. Randhawa." While he indicated that the investment was prohibited and that its financial 7 department made an error regarding the issuance of the stock, there is no evidence of the alleged 8 October 18, 1997 follow-up letter correcting its error. He further claimed that AFL ceased 9 operations in 1999 and was in the process of liquidation, some five years later. In sum, the letter 10 conveniently supported Respondent's arguments without any credible evidence.

11 Finally, Respondent is supposedly the legal counsel for AFL, yet he could not produce 12 any certified copies of AFL's articles of incorporation. In fact, he could not produce any certified 13 copies of documents proving AFL's legal existence. Respondent may have had originally intended 14 AFL to be a legitimate business. Yet, it never got off the ground. AFL became a sham corporation, 15 unbeknownst to the Randhawas. But Respondent knew. Nevertheless, Respondent maintains that 16 the current status of AFL is good in 2004 even though AFL's chairman stated that they were in the 17 process of liquidation in 2003.

18 C. Conclusions of Law

19 1. Count One: Avoiding Interests Adverse to a Client (Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3- 20 300)²⁰

21 Rule 3-300 provides that an attorney must not enter into a business transaction with a client 22 or knowingly acquire an interest adverse to a client unless the transaction or acquisition is fair and 23 reasonable to the client, is fully disclosed to the client, the client is advised in writing that the client 24 may seek the advice of an independent lawyer of the client's choice and is given a reasonable 25 opportunity to do so, and the client thereafter consents in writing to the transaction or acquisition.

26 The purpose of this rule is to "recognize the very high level of trust a client reposes in his 27

28 ²⁰References to rules are to the current Rules of Professional Conduct.

1 attorney and to ensure that that trust is not misplaced. [Citations.] Sadly, this case stands with too 2 many others as an example of an attorney's preference of his personal interests in manifest disregard 3 of the interests of his client." (In the Matter of Kittrell (Review Dept. 2003) 4 Cal. State Bar Ct.
4 Rptr. 615, 623.)

5 Respondent argues that he should not be responsible for a client's investment just because 6 he "also happens to be a stockholder in that company." (Respondent's Closing Arguments, 17:21-7 24.) Such a cavalier attitude undermines the purpose of rule 3-300.

8 Respondent clearly failed to demonstrate that the dealings with the Randhawas were fair and 9 reasonable. (Hunnicutt v. State Bar (1988) 44 Cal.3d 362, 372-373.)

10 Respondent clearly and convincingly violated rule 3-300 by failing to comply with its 11 prophylactic requirements. Respondent knew that the terms of the business transaction were unfair 12 and unreasonable to the Randhawas in that they did not receive any evidence of their investment, 13 such as a stock certificate or promissory note. In fact, the Randhawas were never given any interest 14 in AFL. Also, the Randhawas' investment was not secured. Further, the transaction and its terms 15 were never fully disclosed and transmitted in writing to the Randhawas in a manner that should 16 reasonably have been understood by them. Moreover, the Randhawas were never advised in writing 17 that they should seek the advice of an independent lawyer of their choice nor were they given a 18 reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of an independent lawyer of their choice. Finally, 19 Respondent did not obtain written consent from the Randhawas to the terms of the transaction.
20 Thus, Respondent violated rule 3-300.

21 2. Count Two: Misappropriation (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 6106)

22 Business and Professions Code section 6106²¹ provides that the member's commission of an 23 act involving moral turpitude, dishonesty or corruption constitutes grounds for suspension or 24 disbarment.

25 The State Bar charges that Respondent, after receiving the Randhawas' $25,000 investment 26 funds, misappropriated those funds, thus committing acts of moral turpitude and dishonesty.

27 _____
28 ²¹References to sections are to sections of the Business and Professions Code.

1 Respondent argues that he never asked the Randhawas to invest in AFL and that they 2 invested in AFL against his specific instructions not to do so. He further professes not to have any 3 idea of how the Randhawas got access to his deposit slips. He also alleges that the deposit slips were 4 stolen from his office while the Randhawas testified that he gave them specific depositing 5 instructions. Once the Randhawas deposited the money into his personal account and the Khanna 6 Foods account, Respondent then claims that the $9,000 in his personal account was for legal fees 7 that the Randhawas still owed him despite the fact that there were no outstanding fees. He asserts 8 that the $16,000 in the Khanna Foods account belonged to AFL and was nonrefundable to his clients.
9 He further tells a convoluted story of how his mother gave another $16,000 to AFL so that the 10 $16,000 remaining in the Khanna Foods account could be his personal money. As discussed earlier, 11 the Court finds Respondent's story unbelievable and rejects each of his fabrications.

12 In fact, Respondent engaged in a scheme to defraud the Randhawas out of their money by 13 luring them to invest in a nonexistent company and then spent their money on his personal expenses.
14 The promised stock certificates never materialized. Therefore, by misappropriating $31,000
15 advanced by the Randhawas, Respondent committed acts of moral turpitude and dishonesty in wilful 16 violation of section 6106.

17 3. Count Three: Failure to Return Client Files (Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3- 18 700(D)(1))

19 Respondent is charged with a violation of rule 3-700(D)(1), which provides that a member 20 whose employment has terminated must promptly release all papers and property to the client at the 21 request of the client.

22 Respondent contends that in January 2002 he had not sent the files to attorney Byrnes 23 because he did not know who to send the files to and was not sure if attorney Byrnes still represented 24 the Randhawas.²² In his April 2002 letter to the State Bar, Respondent indicated that he still did not 25 know to whom to send the Randhawa files.²³ At trial he blamed attorney Byrnes for not calling him

26
27 ²²State Bar exhibit 11.

28 ²³State Bar exhibit 13, p. 2.

1 to confirm whether attorney Byrnes wanted to view the files and for not sending him a letter of 2 authorization from the Randhawas. In other word, Respondent argues that he was in a fog as to what 3 to do with the files.

4 Contrary to Respondent's assertion, attorney Byrnes' repeated requests for the client files in 5 July and September 2001 constitute a sufficiently specific request under rule 3-700(D)(1).
6 Respondent clearly was aware of the obligation because he replied to those letters, albeit 7 nonresponsive, and admitted that Jagjit "has an absolute right to those files." After October 2001, 8 when Respondent failed to make the files available or send them to attorney Byrnes in a timely 9 manner, attorney Byrnes assisted the Randhawas in filing a complaint with the State Bar.

10 Finally, some ten months after the request, Respondent wrote to the State Bar and attorney 11 Byrnes on April 25, 2002,²⁴ that he was going to send the files to attorney Byrnes. In attorney 12 Byrnes' May 9, 2002 letter to the State Bar,²⁵ attorney Byrnes confirmed that he had received the 13 Randhawa files from Respondent. Respondent's failure to comply with attorney Brynes' July 18, 14 2001 request for the Randhawas files until late April 2002 is clear and convincing evidence that 15 Respondent is culpable of violating rule 3-700(D)(1). Respondent's defense of misunderstanding 16 is not justified.

17 4. Count Four: Failure to Render Accounts (Rule 4-100(B)(3))

18 Respondent is charged with a violation of rule 4-100(B)(3), which provides that a member 19 must maintain complete records of all funds, securities and properties of a client coming into the 20 possession of the member or law firm and render appropriate accounts to the client regarding them.

21 The Court finds, by clear and convincing evidence, that Respondent is culpable of violating 22 rule 4-100(B)(3). In response to attorney Brynes' request for an accounting of the investment funds 23 and legal fees, Respondent's July 13, 2001 letter did not contain a breakdown of the legal fees that 24 he had been paid. Instead, he simply listed the alleged total amount of legal fees received from his 25 clients and the total amount of outstanding fees in each matter. Moreover, Respondent attempted 26

27 ²⁴State Bar exhibits 14 and 15.

28 ²⁵State Bar exhibit 16.

1 to deny that the Randhawas had ever made an investment in AFL. In fact, in that letter, Respondent 2 demanded that the Randhawas show him the receipts of money they had sent to India for investment 3 in AFL.

4 The Supreme Court noted the duty of an attorney to keep proper accounting books and client 5 transactions records so that the attorney could produce them and show fair dealing if the attorney's 6 actions were called into question. "The failure to keep proper books ... is in itself a suspicious 7 circumstance." (Clark v. State Bar (1952) 39 Cal.2d 161, 174.)

8 To date, the Randhawas have not received an accounting of the $31,000 they had invested 9 in AFL or their legal fees. Respondent's failure to render an accounting of the monies received from 10 the Randhawas constitutes a wilful failure to render an appropriate account of client funds within 11 the meaning of rule 4-100(B)(3). (See In the Matter of Fonte (Review Dept. 1994) 2 Cal. State Bar 12 Ct. Rptr. 752, 758.)

13 5. Count Five: Misrepresentations to the State Bar Regarding Client Funds (Bus.
14 & Prof. Code, § 6106)

15 The State Bar charges that Respondent violated section 6106 by misrepresenting to and 16 misleading the State Bar regarding the disposition of the funds the Randhawas had given him in his 17 letters to the State Bar on January 30 and April 11, 2002.

18 In the January letter, Respondent stated that he "only had authority from AFL to use [the 19 Khanna Foods] account for payment of AFL incurred usual incidental expenses in the United States." 20 In the April letter, Respondent again claimed that the account "was strictly for expenses and other 21 related expenses incurred by [Respondent] as [AFL's] legal representative in the United States." In 22 fact, Respondent used the account to pay Respondent's personal bills and purchases, such as 23 computers and a parking citation.

24 Respondent also denied that he was responsible for the Randhawas' investment in AFL. He 25 wrote in the April letter to the State Bar, "Mr. Randhawas deposited the funds for investment 26 purposes and on his own initiative and volition. I never told him to do so."²⁶ Respondent further 27

28 ²⁶State Bar exhibit 13.

1 argued that the Randhawas had deposited the funds in Respondent's bank accounts without being 2 authorized to do so. "[T]hey were strictly prohibited to invest money in any of my personal 3 investments."²⁷ He claimed that he had no knowledge of how the Randhawas knew about his 4 accounts when in fact, he gave them the deposit slips and instructed them to deposit installments of 5 less than $10,000 each time. He told the State Bar that he would advise AFL not to allow the 6 Randhawas to invest and to return the money. But AFL supposedly acknowledged receipt of the 7 funds, thanked the clients, and assured them the stock certificates were forthcoming.

8 Finally, he asserted that he had nothing to do with the investment funds and that the clients 9 had to seek a refund from AFL directly. He feigned how upset he was upon finding out about the 10 investment. Yet, he treated the $16,000 as his own personal funds and the $9,000 as payment for 11 legal fees.

12 Therefore, Respondent clearly committed acts of moral turpitude by making these false, 13 contradictory and misleading statements regarding the client funds to the State Bar in wilful violation 14 of section 6106.

15 6. Count Six: Misrepresentations to the State Bar Regarding Client Files (Bus. & 16 Prof. Code, § 6106)

17 Respondent is charged with violating section 6106 by making numerous misrepresentations 18 and misleading statements to the State Bar regarding the Randhawas' files. In his January 2002 letter 19 to the State Bar, Respondent claimed that it was the "first time" he had heard the clients demanded 20 their files. In fact, attorney Byrnes had been requesting them since July 2001. Respondent also 21 asserted that he had offered attorney Byrnes "to see them at the time suitable to both of them." On 22 the contrary, he told attorney Byrnes that he could send the copies of all the files and that he would 23 charge him the going rate for copying and Respondent's time for copying. He also claimed that he 24 told attorney Byrnes that he could see the files anytime after October 15, 2001 but that he had not 25 heard from attorney Byrnes.

26 Arguably, because Respondent wrote "can certainly send" and not "will certainly send," it

27
28 ²⁷State Bar exhibit 11.

1 was not definite that Respondent was going to forward the files to attorney Byrnes. At the same
2 time, he never directly told attorney Byrnes that the files were available for his review after October 3 15, 2001. After waiting five months without any success, attorney Byrnes reasonably decided that 4 rather than wasting time in a battle with Respondent to retrieve the files, he and his clients would 5 seek the State Bar's assistance. Even that took an additional five months since Respondent 6 continued to deny his unwillingness to release the files to his clients and blamed attorney Byrnes for 7 the inexcusable miscommunication. In his April 25, 2002 letter to the State Bar, Respondent insisted 8 that "[a]t no point in time anyone asked [him] to either forward or send the files to Mr. Byrnes."²⁸

9 The Court finds his contentions groundless. He had clearly and convincingly violated section 10 6106 by misrepresenting to and misleading the State Bar that he had offered attorney Byrnes an 11 opportunity to review the client files but attorney Byrnes had chosen to ignore the opportunity. In 12 fact, it was Respondent who did not promptly release the files as requested.

13 7. *Count 7: Failure to Cooperate With the State Bar (Section 6068(i))

14 Section 6068(i) provides that an attorney must cooperate and participate in any disciplinary 15 investigation or proceeding pending against the attorney.

16 The State Bar alleges that Respondent failed to cooperate in a disciplinary investigation by 17 making false and misleading statements to the State Bar.

18 Because Respondent responded to the State Bar's letters, albeit untruthful, he did not 19 substantively violate the statute requiring him to cooperate with the State Bar's investigation of his 20 misconduct. His misrepresentations to the State Bar have already been found in violation of section 21 6106. Therefore, Respondent did not violate section 6068(i).

22 IV. LEVEL OF DISCIPLINE

23 A. Factors in Mitigation

24 Respondent bears the burden of proving mitigating circumstances by clear and convincing 25 evidence. (Rules Proc. of State Bar, tit. IV, Stds. for Atty. Sanctions for Prof. Misconduct, std.
26

27
28

²⁸State Bar exhibit 14.

1 1.2(e).²⁹ There is no compelling mitigating evidence.

2 Although Respondent has no record of prior discipline in his 17 years of practice when the 3 misconduct began in 1996, his lack of record is not considered as mitigation because his present 4 misconduct is deemed very serious. (Std. 1.2(e)(i).)

5 The Court offered Respondent adequate opportunity to introduce mitigating factors, but he 6 declined. Although he listed at least 13 potential character witnesses and stated that more than 100 7 clients who were "ready, willing and able" to testify about his character, none testified on his behalf.

8 B. Factors in Aggravation

9 There are many aggravating factors in this case. (Std. 1.2(b).)

10 Respondent committed multiple acts of wrongdoing in abusing his position of trust for 11 personal gain. (Std. 1.2(b)(ii).) He improperly solicited the Randhawas for investment, engaged in 12 a scheme to defraud the clients, misappropriated about $31,000 from the Randhawas to his own use 13 and benefit, failed to promptly return client files, failed to provide them with an accounting, and 14 failed to avoid adverse interests.

15 Respondent's misconduct was clearly surrounded by bad faith, dishonesty and overreaching 16 by misrepresenting to the clients that AFL was a profitable business venture and lured them to invest.
17 They believed him because they considered him a friend, a fellow countryman who spoke their 18 language. When Respondent telephoned them from India, they believed that the investment was 19 sound and a profit would be made. Based on the trust and confidence that the Randhawas held for 20 Respondent as their attorney and friend, they were willing to borrow money from Jagjit's father to 21 satisfy Respondent's request for the final investment. But after they invested, he told them that he 22 could not refund the monies because of his fiduciary duty owed to AFL and that they had to recover 23 the funds from AFL directly. Then he converted the funds to his own use. At trial, Respondent 24 attempted to slander the Randhawas' character, insisted that their investment was forbidden and 25 denied ever persuading them to invest. He claimed the $16,000 became his own personal funds 26 because his mother in India paid AFL the $16,000. (Std. 1.2(b)(iii).)

27
28 ²⁹All further references to standards are to this source.

1 Furthermore, Respondent failed to provide any fee agreement to the Randhawas even though 2 the fees exceeded $1,000. (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 6148.) This uncharged misconduct is considered 3 as further aggravation. (Std. 1.2(b)(iii).)

4 Respondent's misappropriation of $31,000 caused the Randhawas substantial harm. (Std.
5 1.2(b)(iv).) The clients hold working class jobs with limited financial means. Despite their many 6 requests for a refund or an accounting of their investment, Respondent has not returned the money 7 to the Randhawas.

8 Respondent demonstrated indifference toward rectification of or atonement for the 9 consequences of his misconduct. (Std. 1.2(b)(v).) He refuses to admit to any wrongdoing, despite 10 the clear and convincing evidence, and has never reimbursed any of the funds misappropriated from 11 the clients. Instead, he insists that the Randhawas were to blame for their financial loss and that 12 Respondent was the victim of the Randhawas' dishonesty.

13 Respondent displayed a lack of cooperation to the Randhawas. (Std. 1.2(b)(vi).) His lack 14 of candor to the State Bar has already been found as a violation of section 6106. More significantly, 15 Respondent's misrepresentations at trial and in his closing brief are further aggravating. "Under 16 certain circumstances, false testimony before the State Bar may constitute an even greater offense 17 than misappropriation of clients' funds." (Doyle v. State Bar (1982) 32 Cal.3d 12, 23.) Here, 18 Respondent's testimony regarding the existence of AFL, his inability to refund the investment funds, 19 the incredible letters and documents from alleged officers of AFL, the theft of the deposit slips, and 20 so on, was deliberately false. His lack of candor is a strong aggravating circumstance.

21 V. DISCUSSION

22 The purpose of State Bar disciplinary proceedings is not to punish the attorney, but to protect 23 the public, to preserve public confidence in the profession and to maintain the highest possible 24 professional standards for attorneys. (Chadwick v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 103, 111; Cooper v.
25 State Bar (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1016, 1025; Std. 1.3.)

26 This case involves misappropriation of about $31,000, fraud, failure to release client files, 27 failure to render accounts, failure to avoid adverse interests, and repeated misrepresentations to the 28 State Bar. The standards for Respondent's misconduct provide a broad range of sanctions ranging 1 from reproof to disbarment, depending upon the gravity of the offenses and the harm to the client.

2 (Stds. 1.6, 2.2(a), 2.3, 2.8, and 2.10.) The standards, however, are only guidelines and do not 3 mandate the discipline to be imposed. (In the Matter of Moriarty (Review Dept. 1990) 1 Cal. State 4 Bar Ct. Rptr. 245, 250-251.) “[E]ach case must be resolved on its own particular facts and not by 5 application of rigid standards.” (Id. at p. 251.)

6 Standard 2.2(a) provides that culpability of wilful misappropriation of entrusted funds shall 7 result in disbarment, unless the amount is insignificantly small or the most compelling mitigating 8 circumstances clearly predominate. Here, Respondent’s misappropriation of about $31,000 is 9 significant and there is no compelling mitigation.

10 Standard 2.3 provides that culpability of moral turpitude and intentional dishonesty toward 11 a court or a client shall result in actual suspension or disbarment. As discussed above, Respondent’s 12 misappropriation was an act of moral turpitude and his incredible justification for his action to the 13 Court is dishonest.

14 In his closing arguments,³⁰ Respondent maintains that he did no wrong. Instead, he charges 15 that the State Bar and attorney Byrnes had filed a false and malicious complaint against him and 16 withheld and fabricated evidence. Respondent attacks the integrity of the State Bar and attorney 17 Byrnes and attempts to vilify his clients’ credibility and character with tangent reasoning and 18 unsubstantiated allegations (i.e. prosecutorial misconduct, evil plot, immigration fraud, terrorists 19 connection, and violent behavior.) Respondent contends that it is the State Bar who “must be 20 properly punished for subjecting Respondent to such rigorous pressure and hardship for the past 21 three years. OCTC must be made to answer for fabricating and suppressing the evidence and for 22 making its witnesses knowingly perjure themselves under the laws of the State of California.”
23 (Respondent’s Closing Arguments, 18:1-6.)

24 The State Bar, on the other hand, urges a minimum of two years actual suspension for 25 Respondent’s misconduct of misappropriation and misrepresentations, particularly since Respondent 26

27 ³⁰Respondent’s exhibit FFF attached to his Closing Arguments is not admitted into evidence as it 28 was introduced after the trial.

1 took advantage of immigrants clients who had extremely limited financial means, a significant 2 language barrier, and virtually no business and investment experience. The State Bar has cited 3 several cases in support of its disciplinary recommendation, including In the Matter of Kittrell
4 (Review Dept. 2003) 4 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 615, Rose v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 646, Beery
5 v. State Bar (1987) 43 Cal.3d 802, and In the Matter of Peavey (Review Dept. 2002) 4 Cal. State Bar 6 Ct. Rptr. 483, and In the Matter of Johnson (Review Dept. 1995) 3 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 233.

7 The Court finds Respondent's arguments without merit and his misconduct significantly 8 more outrageous than that of the attorneys in Kittrell, Rose, Beery, Peavey or Johnson. Moreover, 9 Respondent presented no mitigating evidence even though he had been in practice for 25 years.

10 In Kittrell, the attorney, who had been in practice for 24 years, was actually suspended for 11 three years for entering into a real estate transaction with an unsophisticated client who lost her life 12 savings of $61,000 in the transaction. The attorney concealed material facts and known risks from 13 his client about the investment. Instead, he told the client that it was a "can't lose" investment.

14 In the other cases cited by the State Bar, those attorneys were actually suspended for two 15 years for persuading vulnerable clients to invest in failed businesses without disclosing significant 16 risks and abused the trust placed in them by their clients.

17 Here, at the time Respondent seduced his clients to invest in a high risk business, Respondent 18 knew or should have known that the business was a sham. The company was alleged to be 19 incorporated in 1992; the Khanna Foods account was never adequately funded, other than with the 20 Randhawas' money; the company was supposed to be liquidated in 2003, some 11 years later 21 without ever having done any business; and at trial, Respondent testified that the current status of 22 AFL was good and that "in a year or two might be very good." Respondent's misrepresentations 23 continue.

24 To further aggravate his misconduct, he advances his fraudulent and contrived 25 misrepresentations before this Court by maligning the character and integrity of his clients, attorney 26 Brynes and Deputy Trial Counsel Albertsen-Murray, by producing uncertified documents and alleged 27 letters from AFL's officers, by asserting that the $25,000 is now his and by denying ever having 28 received the additional $6,000 from the Randhawas.

1 Respondent's misconduct reflects a blatant disregard of professional responsibilities. He 2 clearly has shown no insight into his wrongdoing. He had flagrantly breached his fiduciary duties 3 to the Randhawas and abused their trust as their attorney. When he told them that AFL was a 4 lucrative business venture and that he needed the funds before his trip to India, the Randhawas 5 believed him. Respondent exploited the Randhawas' trust, lack of business experience and high 6 hope for a profitable return of their investment. He has refused to accept responsibility for his 7 misconduct and has done nothing to rectify the harm he has caused.

8 It is settled that an attorney-client relationship is of the highest fiduciary character and always 9 requires utmost fidelity and fair dealing on the part of the attorney. (Beery v. State Bar (1987) 43 10 Cal.3d 802, 813.) The Supreme Court noted that "[t]he essence of a fiduciary or confidential 11 relationship is that the parties do not deal on equal terms, because the person in whom trust and 12 confidence is reposed and who accepts that trust and confidence is in a superior position to exert 13 unique influence over the dependent party." (Id.)

14 The misappropriation of client funds is a grievous breach of an attorney's ethical 15 responsibilities, violates basic notions of honesty and endangers public confidence in the legal 16 profession. In all but the most exceptional cases, it requires the imposition of the harshest discipline 17 – disbarment. (Grim v. State Bar (1991) 53 Cal.3d 21.) In Kaplan v. State Bar (1991) 52 Cal.3d 18 1067, the Supreme Court disbarred an attorney who intentionally misappropriated $29,000 from his 19 law firm. In In the Matter of Spaith, supra, 3 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 511, the attorney was disbarred 20 for misappropriating $40,000 from a client's personal injury settlement funds and misled the client 21 over a year as to the status of the money.

22 In a similar case, In the Matter of Priamos (Review Dept. 1998) 3 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr.
23 824, the attorney engaged in business transactions with a client and committed acts of moral 24 turpitude by his seven year self-dealing with over $500,000 of investment funds he was asked by his 25 client to handle, which included the attorney unilaterally paying himself nearly $450,000 in 26 management and legal fees. The attorney's failure to demonstrate an appreciation of misconduct or 27 learn from his extended period of overreaching of his vulnerable client was a significant aggravating 28 factor to disbar him.

1 In this case, it has been almost eight years since the Randhawas gave Respondent $31,000 2 for investment. Respondent unilaterally declares $9,000 as payment for outstanding legal fees and 3 $16,000 as his own funds and denies receipt of the remaining $6,000. He has no accounting to 4 evidence any outstanding legal fees owed by the Randhawas; no banking statements to support the 5 banking transactions among AFL, his mother and the Khanna Foods account; and no certified 6 documents of AFL as a legitimate corporation or a viable business entity. Like the attorney in 7 Priamos, Respondent has no insight into his misconduct.

8 Moral turpitude is defined as "an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and 9 social duties which a man owes to his fellowmen, or to society in general, contrary to the accepted 10 and customary rule of right and duty between man and man." (In re Higbie (1972) 6 Cal.3d 562, 11 569.) Respondent has clearly and wilfully committed multiple acts of moral turpitude.

12 In recommending discipline, the "paramount concern is protection of the public, the courts 13 and the integrity of the legal profession." (Snyder v. State Bar (1990) 49 Cal.3d 1302.) "It is clear 14 that disbarment is not reserved just for attorneys with prior disciplinary records. [Citations.] A most 15 significant factor . . . is respondent's complete lack of insight, recognition, or remorse for any of 16 his wrongdoing. To the present time, he accepts no responsibility for what happened and only seeks 17 to blame others." (In the Matter of Wyshak (Review Dept. 1999) 4 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 70, 83.)
18 An attorney's failure to accept responsibility for actions which are wrong or to understand that 19 wrongfulness is considered an aggravating factor. (Carter v. State Bar (1988) 44 Cal.3d 1091, 1100-20 1101.)

21 In this matter, the aggravating circumstances are significant. Although the Court had 22 encouraged Respondent to provide mitigating evidence, he produced none. Respondent's refusal 23 to return funds to the Randhawas, significant client harm and continuous failure to comprehend basic 24 adherence to fiduciary duties owed to clients warrant the highest level of public protection. Instead 25 of recognizing his wrongdoing, Respondent went to great length during his testimony to deny his 26 misconduct and blamed his clients for giving him the money. He insists that he was the victim, not 27 his clients.

28 While the Randhawas may have had personal problems in the past, those issues are irrelevant

1 to Respondent's misappropriation of their $31,000 investment funds, failure to promptly return their 2 files, failure to render an accounting, failure to advise his clients regarding an adverse interest, failure 3 to provide the clients with a fee agreement for fees exceeding $1,000, and making repeated
4 misrepresentations to the State Bar. In other word, the clients' problems do not justify Respondent's 5 professional misconduct or preying upon their vulnerability as Indian immigrants.

6 Respondent's acts of dishonesty "manifest an abiding disregard of the fundamental rule of 7 ethics – that of common honesty – without which the profession is worse than valueless in the place 8 it holds in the administration of justice." (Levin v. State Bar (1989) 47 Cal.3d 1140, 1147.)

9 The Supreme Court has repeatedly noted "that deception of the State Bar may constitute an 10 even more serious offense than the conduct being investigated." (Franklin v. State Bar (1986) 41 11 Cal.3d 700, 712.) In Olguin v. State Bar (1980) 28 Cal.3d 195, the Supreme Court increased the 12 recommended attorney's discipline from 90 days to six months not only because of his dereliction 13 of duty to his client resulting in the action being dismissed but, particularly, also because of his 14 deceptive conduct on at least two occasions – lying to a State Bar investigator about that client 15 matter, fabricating documents for his defense, and continuing to assert their authenticity after 16 learning of their bogus nature.

17 Here, Respondent's misrepresentations to the State Bar investigator and before this Court are 18 more egregious than those of the attorney in Olguin and thus, merit a more severe degree of 19 discipline in light of his other offenses. (See Worth v. State Bar (1978) 22 Cal.3d 707, [disbarment 20 for an attorney who misappropriated client funds and presented false and fabricated testimony to the 21 State Bar – misrepresentations which he continued to make before the Supreme Court].)

22 After considering his reprehensible misconduct compounded by his presentation of false and 23 fabricated testimony and evidence, the Court concludes that an actual suspension of two or three 24 years is inadequate to protect the public, to preserve public confidence in the profession and to 25 maintain the highest possible professional standards for attorneys. The "public is therefore at great 26 risk unless Respondent is required to successfully complete a reinstatement proceeding before again 27 being allowed to practice law in this state." (In the Matter of Priamos, supra, 3 Cal. State Bar Ct.
28 Rptr. 824, 830.)

1 Respondent "is not entitled to be recommended to the public as a person worthy of trust, and 2 accordingly not entitled to continue to practice law." (Resner v. State Bar (1960) 53 Cal.2d 605, 3 615.) Therefore, based on the severity of the offenses, the serious aggravating circumstances and 4 the lack of mitigating factors, the Court recommends disbarment.

5 VI. RECOMMENDED DISCIPLINE

6 This Court recommends that Respondent PADAM KUMAR KHANNA be disbarred from 7 the practice of law in the State of California and that his name be stricken from the rolls of attorneys 8 in this State.

9 It is also recommended that the Supreme Court order Respondent to comply with rule 955, 10 paragraphs (a) and (c), of the California Rules of Court, within 30 and 40 days, respectively, of the 11 effective date of its order imposing discipline in this matter.

12 VII. COSTS

13 The Court recommends that costs be awarded to the State Bar pursuant to Business and 14 Professions Code section 6086.10 and payable in accordance with Business and Professions Code 15 section 6140.7.

16 VIII. ORDER OF INVOLUNTARY INACTIVE ENROLLMENT

17 It is ordered that Respondent be transferred to involuntary inactive enrollment status pursuant 18 to Business and Professions Code section 6007(c)(4) and rule 220(c) of the Rules of Procedure of 19 the State Bar. The inactive enrollment shall become effective three calendar days after service of 20 this order.
