)	ORDER DENYING RELIEF FROM

)	GRANTING AN EXTENSION OF TIME
A Former Member of the State Bar.)	IN WHICH TO PAY DISCIPLINARY
)	COSTS

On April 24, 2015, petitioner Carlton Neil Morse filed a "Motion for Relief from Disciplinary Costs," requesting relief from Supreme Court order S224224 (State Bar Court case No. 13-C-12812), assessing disciplinary costs in the above-captioned matter. Petitioner's motion is based on financial hardship.

On May 13, 2015, the State Bar of California, Office of the Chief Trial Counsel (State Bar), by and through Senior Trial Counsel Charles Murray, filed a response, opposing petitioner's request for relief from disciplinary costs, but indicating that it would not oppose the granting of "a reasonable extension of time to pay the costs."

Having carefully considered petitioner's motion and the State Bar's response, the court finds that petitioner's financial condition does not warrant that he be granted relief from payment of costs. However, the court finds that respondent has made a sufficient showing of financial hardship to warrant relief in the form of an extension of time in which to pay the costs owing in the above-captioned matter.

Accordingly, the court ORDERS that petitioner's motion for relief from payment of disciplinary costs in the above-captioned matter is DENIED; and alternatively, on its own motion, ORDERS that the time in which petitioner must pay the disciplinary costs associated with case No. 13-C-12812 is extended so that he may pay one-third of the costs owing with each installment payment, commencing in 2016, and continuing in 2017 and 2018.

The court further ORDERS that, if petitioner fails to pay any installment of disciplinary costs within the time provided herein or as may be modified by the State Bar Court pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 6086.10, subdivision (c), the remaining balance of the costs is due and payable immediately unless relief has been granted under the Rules of Procedure of the State Bar of California (Rules Proc. of State Bar, rule 5.134). The payment of costs remains enforceable both as provided in Business and Professions Code section 6140.7 and as a money judgment.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
