extent of his misconduct. Both attorneys have referred numerous clients to respondent because of the great trust that have in him and his legal abilities, and the clients they referred expressed their satisfaction with the legal services that respondent has rendered. Respondent also presented letters attesting to his integrity, knowledge, skill, and integrity from three clients who have each employed him for five to 20 years, and are aware of the full extent of his misconduct. Two of the clients have referred colleagues to respondent because of the great trust that have in him, and those colleagues expressed their satisfaction with the legal services that respondent rendered. Respondent also presented letters from three personal friends who have each known him for 20 to 63 years. Each friend attested to respondent's trustworthiness, loyalty, support, and compassion. Two of the friends also attested that respondent has always provided them with excellent legal advice when they asked him legal questions and one of the friends stated her opinion that family problems were a significant factor in his misconduct.

No Prior Discipline: Respondent had been a member of the State Bar since December 1975, and had no prior record of discipline before the misconduct began in April 2014. (See Friedman v. State Bar (1990) 50 Cal.3d 235, 242 [20 years in the practice of law without discipline is afforded significant weight in mitigation].)

Family Problems: Beginning in 2010, marital relations between respondent and his spouse of 15 years began to deteriorate. In late 2013, respondent's spouse filed for divorce and respondent vacated the family home. In early 2014, respondent's estranged spouse fell and injured her right hand. The injury caused her to lose the ability to use her right hand, which required respondent to assume significantly greater responsibility for their children, which impacted the time and attention that he was able to devote to his law practice. The divorce and separation from his two children (ages 18 and 15) caused significant emotional stress resulting in a diminished law practice. Respondent simultaneously suffered significant financial distress caused by his having to incur the expense of relocating to a new home while maintaining the family home. The stress from these events caused depression, anxiety, and exhaustion, which caused him to lose interest in activities, including the practice of law, have problems concentrating and make decisions, which contributed to his using his CTA as his personal account. Respondent's family and financial circumstances have been improved and will no longer present the same degree of stress on respondent or his law practice. Respondent has read the Handbook on Client Trust Accounting for California Attorneys published by the State Bar of California and will attend the Client Trust Accounting School by way of this Stipulation. (See Rose v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 646, 667 [family difficulties and other stressful emotional difficulties may be considered in mitigation]; and In re Naney (1989) 47 Cal.3d 725 [emotional problems resulting from familial problems can be mitigating circumstances when they are extreme and are directly responsible for the misconduct].)

Prefiling Stipulation: By entering into this stipulation prior to the filing of a Notice of Disciplinary Charges, respondent has acknowledged his wrongdoing and conserved the time and resources of the State Bar Court and State Bar. (See Silva-Vidor v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 1071, 1079 [where mitigative credit was given for entering into a stipulation as to facts and culpability].)

AUTHORITIES SUPPORTING DISCIPLINE.

The Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct "set forth a means for determining the appropriate disciplinary sanction in a particular case and to ensure consistency across cases dealing with similar misconduct and surrounding circumstances." (Rules Proc. of State Bar, tit. IV, Stds. for Atty. Sanctions for Prof. Misconduct, std. 1.1. All further references to Standards are to this source.) The Standards help fulfill the primary purposes of discipline, which include: protection of the public, the courts and the legal profession; maintenance of the highest professional standards; and preservation of public confidence in the legal profession. (See std. 1.1; In re Morse (1995) 11 Cal.4th 184, 205.)

Although not binding, the Standards are entitled to “great weight” and should be followed “whenever possible” in determining level of discipline. (In re Silverton (2005) 36 Cal.4th 81, 92, quoting In re Brown (1995) 12 Cal.4th 205, 220 and In re Young (1989) 49 Cal.3d 257, 267, fn. 11.) Adherence to the Standards in the great majority of cases serves the valuable purpose of eliminating disparity and assuring consistency, that is, the imposition of similar attorney discipline for instances of similar attorney misconduct. (In re Naney (1990) 51 Cal.3d 186, 190.) If a recommendation is at the high end or low end of a Standard, an explanation must be given as to how the recommendation was reached. (Std. 1.1.) “Any disciplinary recommendation that deviates from the Standards must include clear reasons for the departure.” (Std. 1.1; Blair v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 762, 776, fn. 5.)

In determining whether to impose a sanction greater or less than that specified in a given Standard, in addition to the factors set forth in the specific Standard, consideration is to be given to the primary purposes of discipline; the balancing of all aggravating and mitigating circumstances; the type of misconduct at issue; whether the client, public, legal system or profession was harmed; and the member’s willingness and ability to conform to ethical responsibilities in the future. (Stds. 1.7(b) and (c).)

In this matter, respondent admits to committing two acts of professional misconduct. Standard 1.7(a) requires that where a Respondent “commits two or more acts of misconduct and the Standards specify different sanctions for each act, the most severe sanction must be imposed.”

The most severe sanction applicable to respondent’s misconduct is found in Standard 2.2(a), which applies to respondent’s two violations of rule 4-100(A) [Commingling]. Standard 2.2(a) provides that an actual suspension of 90 days is appropriate for commingling funds in a client trust account in violation of rule 4-100(A). Respondent committed multiple acts of misconduct over eight months by commingling funds in his client trust account.

In evaluating respondent’s misconduct and assessing the level of discipline, Standard 1.7(c) provides that, if mitigating circumstances are found, they should be considered alone and in balance with any aggravating circumstances, and if the net effect demonstrates a lesser sanction is needed to fulfill the primary purposes of discipline, it is appropriate to impose or recommend a lesser sanction than what is otherwise specified in a given Standard. On balance, a lesser sanction is appropriate in cases of minor misconduct, where there is little or no injury to a client, the public, the legal system, or the profession, and where the record demonstrates that the member is willing and has the ability to conform to ethical responsibilities in the future. Here, where respondent has significant mitigation of good character, lack of prior discipline during 40 years of practice, family and financial problems, and a pre-filing stipulation admitting his misconduct, deviation from Standard 2.2(a) is appropriate.

Case law also supports a 60 day actual suspension. In Kelly v. State Bar (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 509, Kelly committed misconduct in two client matters in which he commingled client funds, failed to deposit client funds in trust, misappropriated client funds, and failed to promptly pay out client funds. In mitigation, Kelly had no prior discipline in 13 years of practice at the time of the misconduct, and his actions immediately after the misconduct occurred suggested an absence of deceit or wrongful intent. There were no factors cited in aggravation. The Supreme Court relied heavily on the absence of the deceit, the fact that the resulting harm was not significant, and the absence of evidence suggesting a wrongful intent, and imposed a 120-day actual suspension despite the multiple acts of misconduct in multiple client matters.

Respondent's misconduct here is less severe than Kelly, because it is limited to a single non-client matter of commingling and there is no evidence of misappropriation of client funds, and thus, less discipline is appropriate.

Considering the above, the appropriate level of discipline here is a one-year suspension, stayed, with a two year probation on the condition of a 60 day actual suspension and other standard conditions, including taking and passing the Multistate Professional Responsibility Exam and completing State Bar Client Trust Accounting School. This will achieve the purposes of attorney discipline, which include protection of the public, the courts, and the legal profession.

COSTS OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS.

Respondent acknowledges that the Office of the Chief Trial Counsel has informed Respondent that as of June 25, 2015, the prosecution costs in this matter are $2,925. Respondent further acknowledges that should this stipulation be rejected or should relief from the stipulation be granted, the costs in this matter may increase due to the cost of further proceedings.

EXCLUSION FROM MCLE CREDIT

Pursuant to rule 3201, Respondent may not receive MCLE credit for completion of State Bar Ethics School and State Bar Client Trust Accounting School. (Rules Proc. of State Bar, rule 3201.)
